

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

Barry Newman
Reporter

1211 6th Ave.
New York, N.Y.
10036

To Future Students,

I've had many French tutors over the years. I'm pleased to say that Eric, of LearnFrenchNYC, has been the only one whose mastery of grammar and explanatory skill in both French and English have enabled me to make progress. Because of my tight schedule, and my devotion to French primarily as a hobby, I'm the kind of student who sees tutorial sessions as opportunities for random—and enjoyable—conversation. Eric is not only a fascinating conversationalist, but also an absolutist who never hesitates to interrupt the flow of my brilliant speeches to correct my numerous mistakes. He does so with a charming persistence.

I gladly recommend him to the broadest range of students--from those seeking didactic discipline to those in search of an enlightening échange de bons mots.

Sincerely,

Barry Newman